Lawrence Ford Instantly Killed In McGillivray Mine

Life Snuffed Out Without Warning By Fall of Coal on Tuesday

Death came without an instant's warning to Lawrence Ford, 26-year-old coal bucket at McGillivray mine, on Tuesday afternoon, just a short time before the close of the day shift. A companion heard just one sound as Ford was struck by a lump of coal, and though he was given attention with all possible speed, he was dead, his neck having been apparently broken.

The fatality occurred in the area known as the Prospect, and the body was shortly after the funeral home brought after 3 p.m.

Lawrence was born 26 years ago in Coleman, attended the local schools, and entered the employ of McGillivray Coal Co. in November 1934. In February of this year he was married to Miss Clara Huggson of Blairmore. Members of the family besides his parents are Mrs. James W. Shields and Mrs. A. L. Watkins, sisters, and George and William, brothers. Lawrence was the youngest.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford, parents of deceased, are expected to arrive from Victoria, B.C., on Friday afternoon. They left to spend the remainder of Mr. Ford's leave as secretary of the town, two weeks ago.

Funeral services will be held on Sunday at 3 p.m.

Verdict Mine Fatality Accidental Death

The inquest into the death of Lawrence Ford was held in the council chamber at 4 p.m. on Wednesday, March 9, under Coroner Fred J. Turner of Bellevue. Dr. T. Keith MacLean stated multiple injuries to skull and upper part of body caused death, which he considered must have been instantaneous.

Frank Henriette, who had spoken to Ford a few moments previously, before proceeding to pillar 24, stated as he was moving over, he heard a fall of coal. (Continued on Back Page)

Rifle and Revolver Club Organized

Petition of 22 Members Granted for Establishment of Club—H. T. Driver is Secretary

Target shooting being a popular pastime, and there being a number of devotees of the sport who are desirous of establishing a range, H. T. Driver requested that a permit be given for the use of rifles and revolvers for practice. In a letter the deputy attorney-general of the province states "that I have been instructed to advise the acting commissioner of the R.C.M.P. to this effect and that it will be in order in his discretion to authorize the issue of a permit in Form 76 to a member of this club in good standing for use in target practice."

Mr. Driver informed The Journal that a meeting will be called to fully organize the club.

School Board Notes

The regular meeting of school trustees was held in the board room on Tuesday evening. Present were Trustees Sharp, Fleming and Chamberlain. Absent, Trustees Fraser and Greenhalgh. Mr. Roy Thomas came before the board and stated that on Friday, Feb. 18, Mr. J. Cousins "manhandled" his son, tearing some clothing as well as upsetting chairs. The board informed him a thorough investigation would be made and a report given at their next meeting.

The board granted permission to Miss Irma Wright, typist, to demonstrate speed typing to students.

Letters from the council and department of health were tabled.

Principal Hoyle gave his report, which showed a sharp decline in attendance, the average for February being 88%. Flu was responsible for many absences.

The board authorized the appointment of Mr. Watson as assistant to Mr. Chapman, assessor, at a salary of $5.00 per day plus living expenses.

Accounts were examined and ordered paid.

Nelson Makes Bid for Joyce and Ainsworth

Hockey teams' executives, with no further interest in Allan Cup playoffs, are gaining the attention of fans in their mad scramble to secure hockey talent for next year.

The latest to come under the scrutiny of local fans were the offers made to Joyce and Ainsworth by Nelson Maple Leafs. Having seen and admired the class shown by these two players this winter, Nelson is anxious to secure their services and are reported to have offered jobs with a nice salary.

It is reliably learned that neither player will forsake Canadians. Joyce will be taught a trade at the International and Ainsworth seems to be well satisfied.

Pat Hill left for Calgary on Saturday and was uncertain if he would return. Jensen will be employed by Contractor D'Appollonia during the spring and summer.

Rudolph Kwasnie returned from Kirkland Lake, Ont., last week after a winter's hockey in that gold mining belt. Duke will remain here permanently, and is a certainty to try out for a defence position.

Canadians' executive will endeavor to secure four men. They seek two left wingers, one or two "experience" defencemen, and failing to secure two defencemen will seek a right-winger.

The annual hockey meeting will probably be held Wednesday, March 23. Should the present executive be re-elected negotiations will be started with one player who has been under observation all winter.

AN ODE TO THE DEATH OF BALTO

To W. L. Rippon's dog who was shot on Thursday, February 10. Written in his memory by a grade XI student.

There was a dog named Balto
His bark I think was contralto,
Faults? I know he had none,
There was nothing he couldn't have done.

Although he was only a pup,
Every morning he woke Ralph up,
Following him had become a habit,
Whether after chicken or rabbit.

In camp around the dying embers,
He listened to exploits he well remembers.
Balto, Balto, the immortal Balto,
Although he is gone nothing can alter

The loving memory of his name.
He liked nothing better than playing a game
With Ralph, his chums or mistress Lorraine.

His master had taught him many a trick,
The best of these to play dead and kick.
His most famous feat we all should know,
Was being the first dog to climb the "Crow."

These joyous times never more will he spend.
For on February 10 he met his end.
—Alf Jones.

Playing an exhibition game on Sunday afternoon, Excels trounced Blairmore Bearcats 7-5. Coleman took the lead in the first period and never relinquished it. Pete Brown and Trotz with two goals each led the Coleman attack. Kubie scored two goals for the "Cats." Kanik, Fields and Fleming scored Coleman's remaining goals. Favero, Hlasney and Beigel were "Cats" other marksmen. A return game was played Tuesday evening at Blairmore.

PERHAPS IT'S A CHESTNUT

The old story about the man who got a job because his prospective employer saw him pick up a pin from the floor has a sequel, possibly equally old. He told a friend of his success and the friend, also job-hunting, had the forethought to drop a pin on the floor as he entered the manager's office. As it happened, he obtained the job without using his strategic device, but as he turned away, just to clinch the bargain, he picked up the pin and put it in his lapel. Instantly the manager roared: "It's all off. We don't want you here. A man who'll steal a pin will steal anything."—The Printed Word.

The Supreme Court Judgments No Surprise to Mr. Aberhart

(The Winnipeg Tribune)

There is quite a tendency in the comments on the Supreme Court judgments on the Alberta legislation to speak as if Premier Aberhart had received a body blow, or suffered a serious loss. Actually, perhaps, the contrary is the case.

Mr. Aberhart would have been surprised beyond measure, and more than a little shocked, if the judgments had gone the other way. He would have been faced then with the necessity of doing something about Social Credit and Social Credit dividends, and realization of that fact would have pained him tremendously. Now he has the perfect "out," politically speaking. He can go back to his devoted supporters and tell them the banks, the Ottawa government, the business interests and the courts together have been too strong for him, bringing all his devoted efforts to naught. Then he can ask for renewed support so that he can keep on fighting in their behalf.

It is certainly no surprise to Mr. Aberhart or his government to learn that their Social Credit measures are unconstitutional. Mr. Aberhart had to fire one attorney-general who incautiously admitted this knowledge when the laws were introduced. Every competent authority in Alberta and outside expressed the same opinion. The laws were passed not to become effective, but as window-dressing for the electorate.

Probably the press law is in a little

1938 DOG TAGS HAVE ARRIVED

Chief Antle is ready to start distribution at any time and the new tags may be secured by application at the police station. The same charges as in previous years are in force, $2.00 for dogs and $5.00 for females. Police dogs $10.00. A by-law provides that every dog must be registered with the Chief of Police and the license fee paid. Tags are issued as receipts for licenses, and these tags must be attached to the dogs at all times. Police are authorized to impound dogs which are not wearing the current year's tags.

Coleman Airport Cost Nearly $100,000

As Air Service Develops Local Aerodrome May Become Important Factor in Trans-Canada Service.

When construction was started on an intermediate aerodrome by the Department of Civil Aviation over five years ago, on a piece of school land west of Coleman, west of Fleming's ranch buildings, between the railroad track and the river, some people viewed it, with scepticism, and thought it was merely done to provide a relief camp for unemployed.

But each year the work was advanced, until it was in shape for a plane of the type now being used in the Trans-Canada service to land and take off. The first plane of this type to land here was that piloted by Air Commodore H. Hollick-Kenyon, in October 1936. Though Lethbridge is the only scheduled stop on the service between Regina and Vancouver, this field is radio equipped to keep in constant touch with machines in the air, and it will be used if emergency requires it.

In any event, it is a splendid asset for the town to have an airport at its borders, which in time may prove of far greater commercial value than many other aviation.

A despatch from Ottawa stated:

The government airport at Coleman, Alta., cost $98,334 to the end of 1937, of which $75,707 was spent under the unemployment relief act and the remainder under the civil aviation division, the house of commons was told today by Hon. C. D. Howe, replying to a question from E. G. Hansell (S. C.-MacLeod).

The money that escapes the tax collector might well be called "untold wealth."

Death From Pneumonia Claims Scott Campbell

Resident Here for 33 Years, Respected Citizen Died in Hospital Tuesday Night

Scott Campbell, since 1905 a resident of Coleman, employed at McGillivray mine, with the exception of a few years at International, died late on Tuesday night from pneumonia, after two weeks illness.

He was one of Coleman's earliest residents, well-known and liked for his kindly disposition; a man fond of home life and highly respected. He leaves besides his wife, two sons, one employed at McGillivray mine, and the younger attending school. They are 21 and 14 years respectively.

Mrs. Campbell has been in poor health for a considerable time, and the shock of his death is a sore trial.

Mr. Campbell came here from the district of New Glasgow, N.S., in the days when Coleman was a mere hamlet. He was one of The Journal's earliest subscribers, and has continued so throughout the years.

Relatives of Mr. Campbell in New Glasgow are two brothers and two sisters, all unmarried, living at the old family home. The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at 3 p.m., with a short service at the home, followed by service in St. Paul's United church, and burial in Coleman cemetery.

D. O. Macko Died in Calgary

Formerly of International Co. Staff, Later With Marshall-Wells Co., Edmonton.

Dymter O. Macko, for some years accountant in International Coal Co. offices, who left here about 1932, died in Keith sanatorium on Wednesday morning, age 41 years. He was a cousin of Mr. and Mrs. T. Gushul of Blairmore.

He was born in the province of Galicia, Western Ukraine, and came to Canada in 1912, working for a year in Ontario, then coming to Coleman a year later. During the war years he was official interpreter at internment camps at Banff, Lethbridge and Kapuskasing, Ont., later going to the western United States, when he took a course at Stansfeld University.

Accountancy was his profession, and he also was a photographer of considerable merit, many of his pictures gaining awards in competitions.

He also worked at one time for the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Fernie and Vancouver.

In 1926 he returned to Coleman, entering the offices of International Coal Co. In 1932 ill-health compelled his resignation, to undergo treatment for tuberculosis, to which he had been subject for some time.

On regaining his strength, he worked for two years as chief accountant for Marshall-Wells Co. Ltd., Edmonton. But the ravages of sickness again compelled him to relinquish work, and he entered Keith sanatorium, where he gradually declined.

He married Miss Jenkins, a nurse on the staff of Coleman hospital, (whose parents live in Calgary), and for a time they lived here on Sixth street.

Spanish Government Warship Torpedoes Insurgent Cruiser

Madrid.—Spanish government warships torpedoed a 10,000-ton insurgent cruiser in a dramatic naval battle before dawn Sunday, leaving the shattered warship's identity wrapped in flames off the southeastern coast of Spain.

Government planes joined the engagement, 75 miles east of Cape Palos in the Mediterranean, at daylight, taking additional toll of the insurgent fleet.

A Spanish government announcement identified the blazing warship as the insurgent cruiser Canarias, but the British admiralty, receiving reports from nearby British destroyers, said it was the Baleares, a cruiser of almost identical silhouette.

Loss of life among the cruiser's 765 crew was believed heavy, though the British destroyers Kampenfelt and Boreas carried survivors from the cruiser to other insurgent war vessels.

Both the Canarias and the Baleares, backbones of the insurgent fleet, carried complements of 765 men.

One British seaman was killed and three others slightly wounded during rescue work when a government warplane dropped a bomb near the destroyer Boreas.

The government said the sinking cruiser was struck by a heavy explosive bomb during the aerial attacks that continued throughout the day even after fog obscured the battle scene.

Government aviators reported another bomb struck a nearby cruiser of the same size as the main cruiser, damaged warship, leading to the belief both the Canarias and the Baleares had been crippled.

Columns of smoke rose from both vessels.

Shortly after the naval battle started, a government torpedo struck amidships in the cruiser, second in battle-line. Government scans said its position indicated it was the Canarias since the insurgent flagship, the Baleares, normally would have the first battle position.

According to the official Spanish government announcement the fleet joined battle about 2:20 a.m., well off the government-held port of Cartagena and with the breaking of daylight government bombing planes roared in battle.

Commission Will Probe Disposal of Grain By the Wheat Board

Ottawa.—Voluminous correspondence relating to the inquiry conducted last year by Mr. Justice W. F. A. Turgeon of Regina into the grain trade was tabled in the House of Commons by Hon. W. D. Euler, trade minister.

Feature of the correspondence was the insistence by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, that the commissioner should investigate the balance sheets of the grain and elevator companies with a view to ascertaining the profits made by these concerns.

The magnitude of such a task was emphasized by Mr. Justice Turgeon and Hon. J. L. Ralston, chief commissioner counsel, and the matter referred to the commission's auditors, Price, Waterhouse and Company. The fits on this particular subject concludes with a lengthy letter from this firm setting forth the complexities of the job and promising further details of what might be involved on receipt of "certain additional information."

E. E. Perley (Cons., Qu'Appelle) contributed to the interchangeably was equally insistent with Mr. Bennett that the probe should delve into financial transactions of companies involved.

The matter had its genesis in a House of Commons debate a year ago when the Conservative leader asked that the commission should inquire into "the grain and elevator companies that acquired stocks of grain at the lake ports and their profits as was done in the case of the textile companies, and ascertain what happened in connection with the rest of the crop that was sold in connection with which there was a loss of $15,000,000, though there appears now to have been a profit of $8,000,000."

Mr. Bennett amplified this by requesting that the commission should

"investigate the various grain companies that acquired from the grain board, presided over by Mr. Murray (James Murray, former wheat board chairman) the wheat that was at the lake ports and should ascertain what occurred that wheat, the vast supply in Canada at the present time."

Replying to this, Mr. Justice Turgeon said the commission would probe disposals of wheat by the wheat board in Dec., 1925, "with particular reference to the allegation that the board protected speculative short interests." The commission would also investigate the wheat boards marketing methods abroad.

The commissioner felt that Mr. Bennett's request involved a procedure not contemplated by the inquiry, since it seemed to require a probe into individual transactions "respecting parcels of wheat or futures which, up to July 31, 1926, aggregated upwards of 100,000,000 bushels and covered, even up to that date, a period of about 200 trading days."

"Such an inquiry is not contemplated," wrote Mr. Justice Turgeon, "any more than it is contemplated that the financial results to purchasers from the pools or the central selling agency would be gone into."

"I am wholly dissatisfied with the answer made by Mr. Justice Turgeon and you may so inform him," wrote Mr. Bennett in reply. "If he could deal with the balance sheets of the textile companies as he has, he certainly could deal with the balance sheets of the elevator and other grain companies so as to show what, if any profit was made by them through the acquisition of grain from the wheat board, assuming that the grain so acquired has since been disposed of." (Mr. Justice Turgeon was also chairman of the textile inquiry.)

Loan Business

Says Small Loan Company Refuge Of Average Family
Ottawa.—The small loan company is the refuge of the average family when it runs into financial trouble. Leon Henderson, eminent United States economist, told the banking and commerce committee of the House of Commons in the course of an outline of the small loan business in the United States.

The widest study yet made of the financing of the average family, undertaken by United States government, indicated 20 to 20 per cent. of all families are compelled to spend more in a year than their income. Medical attendance, legal needs, intermittent employment, refinancing of installment purchases and these families to the small loan companies or to "loan sharks."

The committee is studying the possibility of drafting a national law for Canada to regulate interest rates on small loans. They heard that 27 of the states had adopted a model small loan law drafted by the Russell Sage foundation of New York city, and it appeared to be working successfully.

Mr. Henderson agreed a flat maximum rate of 2½ per cent. on unpaid balances might be a starting point for Canada. This would include all charges. If experience showed that the low rate on loans was considerably less in Canada than in the United States then this legal maximum might be reduced.

There was no proper comparison between rates on commercial and production loans by banks and rates on small loans to individuals. Mr. Henderson said, if small loan companies had to pay nothing for their money, the cost of making loans, investigating credit ratings and like expenses would require more than bank charges on loans. The chances of small loans made a comparison of them with loans by the chartered banks invalid.

The lowest legal maximum in the United States was 2½ per cent. Henderson said, except in Wisconsin where it was 2½ per cent. on the first $100, two per cent. on the second $100 and one per cent. on any remainder. However, the Wisconsin law tended to monopoly, and had in fact, given 90 per cent. of the business to the Household Finance Corporation.

Tax On Banks

Manitoba Bill To Increase Taxation By 40 Per Cent.

Winnipeg.—A Manitoba government bill to increase taxation on banks by 40 per cent. was introduced in the legislature by Hon. Stuart Garson, provincial treasurer.

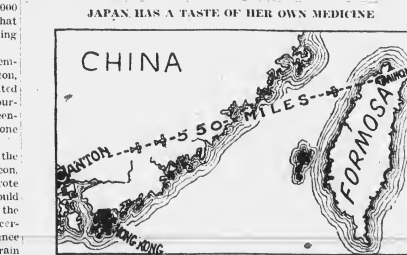

At present there is a straight levy on bank main offices and branches throughout Manitoba. If there is a resident superintendent, the chief place of business pays $5,000; if not, $3,000. All other Winnipeg branches are taxed $750, and $100 for branches elsewhere in the province.

Last year the total collected from banks was $128,000. The new schedule would increase it to $175,000. The new taxation is provided in an amendment to the Corporation Tax Act and will increase each tax item by 40 per cent.

W. R. Sexsmith (Cons., Portage la Prairie) and G. F. Renaud (Cons., Swan River) objected to the form of the taxation, declaring it might have the effect of closing several banks.

The bill was given a first reading.

Cost Of Seeding Operations.
Saskatoon.—Farmers in Saskatchewan would require financing of their seeding operations to the extent of from $20,000,000 to $21,000,000 this spring, Dr. F. Hedley Auld, deputy minister of agriculture, estimated in an address before the Saskatchewan Association of Rural Municipalities here. Original estimates had been set at from $23,000,000 to $27,000,000.

For the first time in history, Japanese territory underwent an aerial bombardment when Chinese planes flew from Canton, China, and dropped bombs on the Japanese colonial island of Formosa. The result was rather terrifying for the inhabitants of Taihoku, and the people of Tokio, also were perturbed when reports stated that the planes were en route to Japan to continue the rain of destruction. The map above shows the situation of Formosa in relation to South China.

A MAN'S JOB

Sir George Broadbent, Lord Mayor of London last year, has just revealed figures which prove the position of Chief Magistrate of the British Capital is no bed of roses. He entertained 36,000 guests at Mansion House, fulfilled 1,200 engagements, involving 1,100 speeches and attended nearly 500 dinners and social functions.

California Floods

Twenty-Six Reported Dead And Ten Thousand Homes Evacuated

Los Angeles. Twenty-six were reported dead, 10,000 homes were evacuated and southern California was virtually isolated in flood waters of the heaviest rainstorm ever recorded in these parts.

Flood water is swelled through low-lying areas of 50 communities from Ventura to San Juan Capistrano and from the Santa Monica mountains to the sea.

Bridges were torn away. Homes were demised by landslides. Automobiles were swept away in raging torrents. All railway lines were paralyzed. Airports were flooded. Possessions of homes were inundated. Streets in Hollywood, Beverly Hills, Santa Monica, Long Beach, Croydon, Glendale, downtown Los Angeles and scores of other communities were converted into streams. Tens of thousands of relief workers were sent into the field as the Los Angeles county mayor disaster emergency council went into action on its first mobilization.

The largest group perished in the collapse of a foot bridge across the Los Angeles river near Long Beach when 10 were reported swept to death in the Pacific ocean.

Five perished in collapse of homes in Los Angeles and caves.

Three men, a woman and a boy were reported drowned by the flood waters in Lytle canyon, near San Bernardino. Two men were carried to their death in the swirling waters of the Santa Ana river when a landslide was carried away near San Juan Capistrano.

Police officers ordered residents to evacuate their homes in the washes and low lands below a number of dams in the Sierra Madre mountains. More than 100,000 workers were sent to their homes when stores, plants and factories closed until the flood emergency is over.

Will Support Chamberlain

Australia Is In Favor Of Anglo-Italian Friendship Talks

Canberra.—Australia will support the Anglo-Italian friendship talks, Prime Minister Joseph Lyons announced.

The decision was made, the prime minister said, after he received special assurances from Prime Minister Chamberlain that the United Kingdom adhered to the foreign policy enunciated at the Imperial conference in London last year, involving support of the League of Nations and collective security.

Social Credit Edifice In Alberta Considered To Be In Legal Danger

Ottawa. The Social Credit edifice of Premier William Aberhart of Alberta was considered to be in legal danger as a result of decisions of the supreme court of Canada.

In unanimous judgment, six judges of the court ruled that three Alberta bills relating to credit regulation, bank taxation and newspaper control, were unconstitutional. In addition, they agreed the Dominion retained power to disallow provincial legislation and lieutenant-governors to reserve assent to bills.

Going outside the terms of the reference, Chief Justice Duff and Justice H. H. Davis passed an opinion the Alberta Social Credit Act, the keystone in the legislative edifice of the Aberhart government to establish a new financial system in the province, was unconstitutional.

This phase of the chief justice's decision was considered the most important of all because of the legal doubt it cast on the whole Social Credit plan of the Aberhart government.

One interpretation placed on it was that it precluded establishment of a Social Credit financial system in any Canadian province because of lack of legal control over two fields, banking and trade and commerce, held by the Dominion under the British North America Act.

Here are some of the comments of the other judges relating to the Social Credit Act.

Judge P. J. Kerwin and Judge O. B. Crockett. "An examination of these provisions leaves no doubt in my mind that the act is an attempt to regulate and control banks and banking as these terms are used in section 94 of the British North America Act."

Judge L. A. Cannon. "I had the advantage of reading the careful analysis of the bill relating to credit control prepared by my brother R. Kerwin, and his criticism of its dispositive clause. I trust that I could add nothing useful to his reasoning. I agree with him and his conclusions."

Judge A. E. Hudson. "It is clear that the three bills submitted as part of one legislative scheme, the Social Credit Act. That act has been the subject of a searching analysis by my lord the chief justice and I concur in his reasons for holding that it is beyond the power of the legislature."

The judges' opinion on the Social Credit Act did not delete it from the statute books or affect it in any way. It was merely an expression of opinion from the bench, but it would weigh heavily on any junior judge who was called upon to pass on the constitutionality of the statute in an ordinary case.

Similarly, the court's decision had no tangible effect on the three bills because they never came into operation in the first place. Lieutenant-Governor John Bowen refusing to sign them after the legislature passed them in October. Unless the supreme court's decision is upset by the privy council, the bills will never reach the statute books or become law.

The supreme court decisions may be appealed to the privy council in England but no decision was made immediately. In Edmonton Premier Aberhart said he understood Prime Minister Mackenzie King intended to launch the appeal. In Ottawa the prime minister said he would be glad to receive recommendations from Alberta on the point.

It was considered unlikely the Dominion would take the initiative in appealing because of its clear vulnerability over the legal contentions of Alberta. At the same time, the fact the court was unanimous and clear cut in its decisions might deter the province from appealing. The decision, however, will be made soon.

Joint Railway Management

Senate Resolution Urges Board Of Directors For Both Roads

Ottawa.—Joint management of the Canadian National Railway and the Canadian Pacific Railway by a board of 15 directors, as recommended in a senate resolution of 1925, was proposed in the Upper House by Senator C. P. Egan. (Cons., Montreal.)

Canada was the first to have practically $1,000,000,000 in railway action had not been taken to carry out the senate's 1925 resolution which had been supported by both sides of the chamber, the Senate and the House.

The resolution urged the board of directors be composed of five named by the C.P.R., five by the government and five chosen by those 10 directors from capable business men.

Japs Fear Air Raids

Danger Seen In Her Closely Packed Cities When War Comes

Tokyo.—Japan's fear of air raids on her closely-packed cities in "the next war" was reflected in excited parliamentary debate over the government's drastic national mobilization bill.

Defending the measure, which parliament members have attacked as dictatorial and Fascist, Major-General Isamu Toyonaka said the danger of the danger of air raids the law was necessary as an emergency instrument through which the nation instantly could be placed on a war footing.

Japanese Problem In British Columbia Is To Be Investigated

Ottawa.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said that the departments concerned were now considering their recommendations for personnel of the board of review to be constituted to investigate the Japanese problem in British Columbia and particularly to inquire into allegations of illegal entry of Japanese into Canada.

Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of defence, announced in Vancouver such a board was to be set up. On Feb. 17 in the House of Commons Mr. Mackenzie King said the immigration, fisheries and external affairs departments and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and intelligence branch of the national defence department were co-operating in respect to laws affecting the entry and deportation of aliens.

Mr. Mackenzie King said that the departments he mentioned in the house had not yet concluded consideration of the names to be submitted for the board. When final recommendations are made, board's constitution will be announced by the prime minister.

Attention was drawn by the prime minister to his speech in the house on Feb. 17 when he spoke in a debate on a measure concerning Japanese immigration to Canada. On this occasion he said:

"The member for New Westminster (Thomas Reid, Liberal) mentioned that the Royal Canadian Mounted Police had discovered many cases of illegal entry and that some 900 persons had been sent out of the country in consequence."

"The officials of the immigration department, the fisheries department, the external affairs department, the Mounted Police, the intelligence branch of the defence department, have all been working together at Ottawa, with respect to regulations, and in British Columbia in actually seeking to enforce the laws and regulations and to prevent aliens from coming into the country surreptitiously and to send out those who have come in illegally."

"They have been doing so of late to a degree that has never been attempted heretofore. We intend to intensify that investigation into illegal entries into Canada, and I wish to assure the house that everything that the government can possibly do to prevent anything in the nature of illegal entries will be done."

Vancouver, B.C.—The Japanese problem in British Columbia will be thoroughly investigated by the federal government, Defence Minister Ian Mackenzie told interviewers here.

The government proposes a board of review which will hear any persons claiming to have proof of information leading to such proof that Japanese have illegally entered the province, said the minister. A special detail of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police will be assigned to collaborate with the board of review to carry out a thorough checkup.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

THE WEEK following publication of our last issue started with a bang. First thing Friday morning came the announcement that the supreme court of Canada had declared Social Credit legislation unconstitutional. As the "press muzzling" bill was among those disallowed, it really was good news from our viewpoint. It must have also been pleasing to the bankers that the proposed $2,000,000 additional taxation scheme was ruled out of court.

THE SUPREME COURT decisions stress the point that people of Alberta are not only citizens of a province, but are citizens of Canada, and that certain rights as such cannot be interfered with by provincial legislation. Neither can a legislature set up certain laws unto itself without the consent of the whole Dominion. Premier Aberhart never would admit this limitation of his powers, but went ahead trying to circumvent Federal laws, proclaiming at the same time that he was loyal to the Dominion. He would not listen to advice from his former attorney-general, who was forced out of the cabinet, the premier taking his place. To those who appreciate the fact that Canada cannot be a country of factions, and that it is necessary for the provinces to work together for the good of the whole, the court decisions will bring gratification. Alberta is just one of nine provinces of Confederation, and simply could not live as a law unto itself as Premier Aberhart so desired.

THE SOCIAL CREDIT government's wild theories have cost Alberta considerable money, which is being borne by the taxpayers, but there is one redeeming feature, in that Canadians, no matter in which province they may live, will have learned that there is a constitution safeguarding the rights of all the people; that there is a supreme court to curb wild legislation, and that democracy is safeguarded from the experiments of theorists at home and abroad who would pilory all who would not submit to their will.

THE ARGUMENT that Social Credit is being thwarted by the "Big Shots" and the Federal government, and consequently dividends of $25 a month cannot be paid, has been frequently used. In view of the fact that the whole scheme was illegal from the start, the argument cannot be substantiated. The people were fooled by promises, and in the first place, it was Mr. Aberhart's place to find out if his theory was practical and within his power to accomplish, as head of a government, before embarking on his wild course. To say that he has tried to abolish poverty is not borne out by the record, and the latest demonstration of inconsistency is the additional $200 increase to each member of the legislature, while relief appropriations and interest on provincial certificates were cut, the latter in half.

HERE IS something of interest which might be read by those zealots who see no good in others: "The urge to pilory someone, and to shoulder the general blame off onto a defenceless class or individual, breaks out with special fury when the heavens darken, or when an installment on past folly is due. Today, as the clouds lower over our country, we have pounced upon the Business Man as our favorite victim; amid the huzzahs of the multitude we now drag him off to the sacrifice. If the lash-wielders and grand inquisitors could turn from their grim baiting of the business man and bend a quiet eye upon their own consciences—what would they find there? Twenty-seven-jeweled idealism? Perfection, recumbent on a fleecy cloud? Would they find the humility of St. Francis or the selflessness of Damien? Tolerance? Brotherly love? Invariable integrity in small matters and large? Would they, after long searching, find inscribed upon their heart's secret tablet the gentle philosophy of the Golden Rule? I think they would not find these virtues any more plentiful in themselves than in the business man."

"And politicians, those stone-in-hand gentlemen who usually lead the procession up to the foot of the pillory, are perfect examples of 'one-way guys.' Verily, their pockets are lined with fishhooks. They are great students of the dollar [their own dollar] and are adept only at spending without scruple other people's money. No, it simply does not wash when we blame the business man for the evils that have befallen our country. He is as much, and as little, to blame as the rest of us. And before we can go about plucking the mote out of our brother's eye, we must attend to the bigger and more pressing job of casting the beam out of our own!"

The paragraphs quoted are from an article entitled "Private Virtue, Public Good," by Henry Morton Robinson, in the March issue of The Reader's Digest.

EFFORTS should be continued to have more light at nights around the town. The contrast is so striking between this town and Blairmore that it gives the impression this is a "hick town" that can't afford to light its streets.

Mr. Hansell Addresses the House

Copies of a speech by Ernest G. Hansell, M.P., on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, delivered in the House of Commons on February 10, have been received by a number of local people. It was partly in reference to coal subventions and monetary reform policy. He also took the opportunity to read to the House a copy of Aberhart's act to "Ensure the Publication of Accurate News and Information." Of the six pages of Hansard containing the report of his speech, five were taken up with matters such as the Powell-Unwin plea for clemency, monetary reform and the press bill of the Social Credit government. These subjects formed the greater part of his address. A copy is available at The Journal office and will be given to anyone interested.

Legislative Members
Well Paid

Rev. Roy Taylor, defending the salary boost to legislative members, stated that many of them had made sacrifices in entering the legislature. $1800 and $700 special allowance, plus travelling expenses, do not indicate any sacrifice, rather the reverse. And E. O. Duke agreed and voted with the majority. Provincial governments are costing far too much, particularly when one considers that only two months residence in the capital is required, and even this could be materially reduced if a lot of time wasting debate were eliminated. Nine provincial governments to govern less than eleven millions of people, in addition to the Federal house, keeps taxpayers shouldering a heavy and needless burden.

Leaders of men are seldom followers of fashion.

Evangelist At Nazarene Mission

Rev. Edward Lawlor, regularly commissioned evangelist of the Church of the Nazarene, arrived on Sunday from Medicine Hat and will be here until March 20, conducting services for the Nazarene Mission of Coleman. Miss Mooshian, who is in charge of the mission, is anxious that as many as possible take advantage of hearing this young evangelist. He speaks nightly at 7.30 p.m. and his subjects for the rest of this week are:—

Friday evening, "Marks of the Mark of the Beast 6-6-6," illustrated with chart; Saturday evening, "We Don't Need a Revival in Coleman"; Sunday morning, "Practical Christianity"; Sunday evening, "The Heart Cry of a Murderer."

Every message is different, stirring, original, and the evangelist is dramatic in his presentation of the old fashioned truths of the gospel. He has had some very unique experiences and will give his life story some night next week. This will be most interesting. Everyone is cordially invited to attend these meetings.

John Lochrie left for Calgary on Tuesday where he will receive further hospital treatment.

Elks' Pee Wees Win Red and White Trophy

Elks' Pee Wees made no mistake Sunday afternoon when they defeated Pattinson's Pee Wees 6-0 in the semi-final of the league championship for the privilege of meeting the Polish team for the handsome silver trophy donated by Red and White for the league championship.

In the final against the Polish, Elks dominated the entire first period. So decisive was their domination that McLeod, in the Elks' net, received his first shot on goal ten minutes after the start of the second period. Elks scored the only goal of the game in the first period.

The winners will be presented with the league trophy in the near future, probably at some function given the boys by the Elks.

Miss Margaret Allan, high school teacher, was absent from her class several days this week suffering from flu.

R. F. Barnes left Friday for Victoria to play in the annual golf tournament.

J. S. D'Appolonia is expected back from the Mayo hospital, Rochester, within the next week.

Frank Patterson is around again after a serious illness.

Fisher Mentioned as Red Wing Prospect

Hockey fans were given an agreeable surprise on Saturday night during the Imperial Oil hockey broadcast from Toronto when Joe Fisher's name was mentioned.

Joe has been showing rare form this winter for his team at Kirkland Lake, Ont. and has come under the watchful eye of a scout for Detroit Red Wings. According to this scout, Joe is the best prospect he has seen this year. It will be remembered that Fisher was given a try-out with Boston Bruins last Fall but failed to make the grade.

When one considers Fisher suffered a gash in his face requiring ten stitches to close, a broken hand and a broken heel during the winter and still drew the attention of scouts he must have shown class.

Editor Bartlett states in the Blairmore Enterprise: "A Coleman guy is advertising for fertilizer. Well, if we were Halliwell, we'd advise him to look to Edmonton." To which the reply might be made that there is no need to go that far. Just tune in next Sunday afternoon.

Harry Thomas intends leaving shortly for Vancouver where he may remain for some months.

The 39th annual meeting of the Canadian Mining and Metallurgical Institute will be held in the Royal York hotel, Toronto, on March 14-15-16.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Kwasiene returned last week to reside in Coleman after having spent the winter at Kirkland Lake where "Duke" played hockey.

The engagement is announced of Miss Beatrice Elizabeth Cartwright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Cartwright, of Blairmore, to Mr. Jerry Celli, of Coleman. The marriage will take place Saturday, March 19.

E. O. Duke, M.L.A., accompanied by Mr. Buck, assistant relief commissioner, of Edmonton, addressed a meeting at Hillcrest on Sunday morning, in connection with relief matters. Mr. Duke also met a number of his supporters in the Pass towns.

Harry King, salesman for General Electric, may have some good hints or bright ideas for those who intend writing 100-word essays in the $10,000 prize competition to be held. Watch for advertisements and publicity in The Journal, which will prove of widespread interest.

The Journal acknowledges receiving a complimentary ticket for the smoker and presentation to Dr. T. K. MacLean, on Saturday evening next, when prizes will be presented to winners of the highest marks in classes of St. John Ambulance Association. ## A Piece of Cloth CLOTH is very old. It is as old as man-made fire or man-made shelters. It is older than pottery. No matter how far back into mankind's earliest beginnings the professors of history may search, they find that cloth is even older than history.

ALL DOWN THE CENTURIES, people the world over have spun and woven cloth. They made it in China, in the Nile Valley, in ancient Greece. The Indians of our continent produced very good cotton and woollen cloth.

TODAY in Canada we make excellent cloth. The textile industry furnishes employment to one out of every five industrial workers in this country. In 2,234 textile establishments, 115,000 men and women have steady jobs, year in and year out, winters as well as summers. The goods that they make form 13 per cent. of our total industrial production.

DOMINION TEXTILE COMPANY has been making cloth since the early part of this century. A Canadian company, financed by Canadian money, employing Canadians in six towns of Quebec province, this company feels that the cloth which it weaves is the equal of any produced in the long history of this ancient art.

Australia To Invite Immigrants

Aiming At Objective Of 7,000 Brit-Isers A Year

Steady decline in Australia's British population since 1930 and a concurrent influx of aliens has prompted the federal government to re-open the question of selected immigration.

Prime Minister Joseph Lyons has already announced the commonwealth cabinet has been devoting its attention to a scheme understood to provide for assisted passages for special types of immigrants.

The ministry is reported to be aiming at the objective of 7,000 Britons a year, giving precedence to domestic youths for the land and skilled artisans, of whom there is an acute shortage in Australia. It is tentatively proposed to inaugurate the plan early in 1938.

Commission For Palestine

New Body To Have Authority To Modify Partition Plan

Sir John Woodhead, a veteran of the Indian Civil Service, will head the new Royal Commission which will go to Palestine. The new body will report on technical questions involved in recommendation of the Peel Commission that the Holy Land be partitioned into Arab and Jewish states, with a British mandated territory to cover Jerusalem, Bethlehem and other Holy places.

Colonial Secretary William Ormsby-Gore told the House of Commons that Sir John will be assisted by Sir Alison Russell, an expert in colonial law, and Alexander Waterfield, a treasury official. Appointment of a fourth member will be announced later.

The new commission will have full liberty to suggest modifications in the partition plan, including a variation in the areas recommended for retention under British mandate. Taking into account representations from the communities of Palestine and Transjordan the new commission is authorized to recommend boundaries for the proposed Arab and Jewish areas and for the enclaves to be retained permanently or temporarily under British mandate.

FLINFLON

"The Story of Its Finding and Position To-day"

By PRATT KUHN

Here's A Fish Story!

Talking of sturgeon. I saw a 150-pounder and many weighing 40, 50, 60 pounds, when cleaned and with heads and tails off. Just below the dam at Island Falls I saw an Indan, Bogash, by name, make three casts with a 50-foot line baited with a spoon and without a pause haul in a six to eight pound jackfish each time. Up there they feed this fish to their dogs.

In the store at Island Falls in a quick survey I saw Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, Daver's Aspirin, Ipana Tooth Paste, Hind's Honey and Almond Cream sticking out in a full line of proprietaries.

Furnish, too, was Ovaltine, Postum, Oat, Praxer, Silver King's Mustard, Life Savers, Nabob Coffee and Speck, Melrose Orange Pekoe, Tiny Tea, Tins of various brands of Bitter Gloss, Old Dutch Lifebuoy Soap, Palm Olive Soap, Gillette's Life Choke Girl cologne, spencers, All tobacco and cigarettes, including Buckingham, Winchester, Sweet Caporal's Women's Soap, Silk Hosiery, Men's Vellux Socks.

One of the outstanding features of Island Falls, (the town about one mile from the power plant) is the Community Hall built by the men. It's a large hall, it has an indoor tennis court, full size, on hard wood floor and well heated for winter by electricity. There are perhaps only five or six indoor tennis courts in all Canada, yet here, 700 miles north of Winnipeg, they have a dandy.

It also has a Brunswick-Balke-Bowling alley, a talkie movie theatre seating perhaps 160, where up-to-date films are shown twice a week, secured on a rental basis from somewhere East. I know those cans of film are heavy because I helped haul them on portages on their return trip to Flin Flon.

It also has a travelling book library, a billiard table, etc., and the children can have a great time indoors all winter long in the big hall.

This summer, concrete sidewalks were laid down and as there is no transportation except by shank's mare, the sidewalk spaces are being covered for gardens and flowers which thrive marvellously.

Radios are universal, but programmes are left received on short wave.

There are only two wood stores for cooking in the town, all homes being electrically equipped.

Market For Poultry

Canada Supplies All Live Birds

United States Customs Service. Canada has been practically the sole supplier of live turkeys to the United States for a number of years past, although the trade steadily declined from the peak year of 1931 and was almost negligible in 1933, writes C. H. West, assistant Canadian trade commissioner at New York in the Commercial Intelligence Journal. Since the latter year there has been an improvement, imports in 1935 of 25,191 pounds valued at $1,888, being four times that of the preceding year. The Dominion also supplied the bulk of the United States imports of live poultry other than turkeys. Imports of chickens, ducks, geese and guineas from Canada in 1936 amounted to 1,662,436 pounds out of a total of 1,800,517 pounds. Two of the principal states to which all types of live poultry are shipped from Canada are Maine and New Hampshire. Live turkeys are imported in largest volume across the Dakota boundary and other live poultry into the state of Washington.

Fur Style Show In Alaska Is Colorful And Unique

There were no bathing beauties at the Fur Rendezvous in Anchorage, Alaska, but Winfield Erwin, head of the executive committee, guaranteed "no other style show in the world that would be as colorful and unique."

The Rendezvous guests were crowded at the trappers' hall. Twenty Eskimo students from Khatana Vocational School performed native dances.

A Multi-Racial Nation

Switzerland Has Added Fourth Language To Official List

Already possessed of three official languages, Switzerland has just added a fourth to its string.

German is spoken by about 75 per cent. of the Swiss people and predominates in 16 of their 22 cantons. About 20 per cent. speak French, which predominates in four cantons, and about 4 per cent. speak Italian, which predominates in one canton.

The newly recognized official language is Romansh, an Italian dialect, which is spoken by not more than one per cent. of the Swiss people and only in part of Grisons canton.

The multi-racial Swiss nation clearly believes in equality and fair-play even for minorities, a virtue that is not apparent, to the same extent, among some of its more numerous neighbors.

The word Switzerland connotes to many people only the Alps, Swiss cheese and watches, a fact that does not do justice to the 4,000,000 people, self-sufficient people who live on its 15,000 square miles of mountains and valleys and defend a citadel with fascism and communism. Detroit Free Press.

Is Kept Well-Informed

Premier Chamberlain Knows What Goes On Behind Scenes

The swiftness with which the guillotine fell on the slender neck of Secretary Eden would seem to suggest that Premier Chamberlain had reason to fear that "war" was very near. "His sources of information are unmatched in the Empire. He may have seen shadows of coming sinister manoeuvres which would have literally forced war on the proud British people. There are plenty of such possibilities. We could submit to the destruction of our vast interest in Shanghai but not to an attack on Hong Kong. We can negotiate about Spain but not about Egypt. If the Fascist Powers once accepted the settled idea that Great Britain was irreconcilable and immovable on what they regard as vital issues, they might at any moment think the occasion ripe for a show-down before the Empire armaments were ready. They must be sorely tempted today to press their advantage."—Montreal Star.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FEEDING THE HUNGRY

Golden text: Give ye them to eat.

Mark 6:37.

Lesson: Mark 6:33-44.

Devotional reading: Isaiah 55:1, 2-5:10.

Explanations and Comments

The Feeding of the Multitudes, Mark 6:33-44. When Jesus saw the crowd mulling around him, he was about to take pity on them. He was not, not knowing quite why they had come nor what they desired, he had compassion on them. It was about to rain. Each in his place seemed important to him.

An earnestly striking incident in our story is Jesus' asking divine blessing upon the five loaves and two fishes before it was handed out to supply the need of the hungry multitude. What a tense moment it must have been when, with a bare hand, little loaf in his hand, he looked up into heaven and asked his Father's grace to do what was beyond all human ability. Could any one in that company ever forget that moment?

If we are going to do anything to help relieve the hunger and need of the world, we must first ask God's blessing and help in all that we do. How did Jesus feel them? We do not know. Using the everyday means at hand and the disciples as his assistants, Jesus fed the multitude, and in so doing gave them an object lesson in practical service. When all had eaten there remained twelve baskets of the broken pieces and of the fishes.

Jesus gave that meal to the multitudes. Jesus' love followed through all ages, that, unless they cared for man's bodily wants, they would never touch the spiritual and eternal in them. (J. G. Grubbough).

New Variety Of Potatoes

Mesa-ha Has Shallow Eyes And Uniformly Smooth Surface

Here's a flash for hunk potato lovers:

A new variety, which its developers predict may surpass the famous collier in popularity in some sections, has been introduced by the University of Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station.

It is the "Mesa-ha," described by its breeders, Dr. F. A. Krantz and A. C. Tolpelt, as "decidedly superior to the collier for market purposes and of great appeal to the housewife because of its shallow eyes and uniformly smooth surface. Those characteristics make possible easy peeling with a minimum of waste."

The Mesa-ha was developed from a cross made 12 years ago between the Russet Rural and a seedling obtained from the Early Ohio variety. It does especially well on peat soils. The University Farm horticulturist said but last indicated it may have a wide adaptation.

A doctor received a note which read as follows:

"Please call and see my husband. It's his head. He's had it off and on all yesterday, and today he's sitting with it in his hands between his knees."

2-WAY RELIEF FOR THE MISERY OF COLDS

The speed with which "Aspirin" tablets act in relieving the distressing symptoms of colds and accompanying sore throat is utterly amazing. . . and the treatment is simple and pleasant. This is all you do. Crush and dissolve three "Aspirin" tablets in one-third glass of water. Then gargle with this mixture twice, holding your head well back. This medicinal gargle will act almost like a local anesthetic on the sore, irritated membrane of your throat. Pain comes promptly; rawness is relieved. You will say it is remarkable. And the few cents it costs effects a big saving over expensive "throat gargles" and strong medicines.

"Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trademark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Wilmers, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

And He Complained

Pensioner Who Had Three Days' Service In Army Draws $35,000

Hon. C. G. Power, pension minister, told the House of Commons of a pension case that cost the treasury $35,000.

The man had three days' service in the Canadian army after being dismissed from the American army because of tuberculosis.

From 1917 until his death a comparatively short time ago, the man received pay and allowances which totalled $35,000.

"And," continued the minister, "we did not have a single day in all those years when we did not receive complaints about his pay and allowances."

The man not only complained himself, but he enlisted the assistance of ex-soldier organizations.

Useful Gadgets

Help Buffalo Inventor To Keep Within Speed Limit

When the automobile of Palmerino La Fale, Buffalo inventor, exceeds a speed of 30 miles an hour, a buzzer warns him. He says it helps him to obey the law. The device, attached to his speedometer, also switches on lights on the front and rear of his car when it attains any speed set as a maximum. This, it was assumed, would notify traffic police that the driver was speeding.

Silver In Bullets

The most expensive battle in history, in proportion to the amount of ammunition used, was the siege of Richmond during the Civil War, when bullets fired by the Confederates contained as much as 25 per cent silver.

"I'll never be the same, m'lud," said Crump.

"Nonsense. What happened to you?"

"Elaime, m'lud, she came back."

"Come back?"

"Yes, m'lud. I left her dead, as dead as Napoleon. I closed her eyes. Then she vanished. I thought she had taken her away—for a joke—but he denied it. A few minutes ago I went into my room to get a handkerchief, and there she was, waiting for her tail!"

"But they don't give a name," said the earl.

"She did," said Crump.

"You'll excuse me for asking, Crump," said the earl, "but were you just a tiny thought stupefied?"

"You know that I am never in the least inebriated, except, perhaps at Christmas," said Crump.

"That's so," admitted the earl. "It must be a miracle then. Let's investigate it!"

An expeditionary force, headed by the earl, with Lady Rosa and Ernest close behind him, and Crump and Mrs. Featherby forming a tremulous rear-guard, pushed into Crump's room, which was just off his pantry.

"Here, right, Crump," said the earl. "Her eyes are open and she is wagging her tail!"

He stopped a dozen feet from where the dog lay in her basket-bed by the fire-place.

"See Elaime. Good doggy," he said. She continued to gaze at them fixedly, the while wagging her tail.

"Well," said the earl, "I wasn't afraid of her when she was alive so I suppose I shouldn't be afraid of her ghost. I am, though," he added. Chastitously he edged nearer to Elaime.

"Nice ghostie, nice ghostie," he said, and stretching out his hand he patted Elaime's ebony muzzle.

"Stuffed!" he exclaimed. "She's been stuffed!"

"B-b-but stuffed dogs do not wag their tails," said Crump, in the doorway, poised for flight.

"This one does," said the earl. He bent closer and could hear a tick-tick-tick. "Clock-work," he said. "By Jove, how clever! You'd hardly know her from the old Elaime, would you, Crump?"

The butter came forward and knelt beside Elaime. He stroked her with hands which trembled a little. Elaime gave a short, sharp bark. Crump catapulted back on the seat of his bathroom trousers.

"Crump?"

"Yes, m'lud."

"Pull yourself together. The creature can't hurt you."

"But she barked, m'lud."

"I know that. Heard her myself. And a most life-like bark it was. But she's not a ghost, Crump. At least she doesn't feel like a ghost."

"The idea Father is trying to convey in his obscure way is that we'd like to hold the annual Hunt Ball of the Penington Hounds here a fortnight from tonight," Lady Rosa said.

"You see," enlarged the earl, "it's the county's biggest binge, and it's always been held here since men began to chase foxes in these parts. We sleep some of the hunting party the night before the hunt, and the next night all the lords and ladies gather in their pink coats and best pianofortes for a bit of innocent merriment. We contribute the castle and the hunt members supply the eatables, drinkables and music, and a good time is had by all, except the fox."

"I'll be very pleased to donate the use of the castle," said Ernest.

"My best thanks," said the earl. "You're a very poor affair, my boy. Really it's a pity it has ridden with the Penington pack and not itself gently sozzled at the ball. There'll be more peers of the realm about than you can shake a stick at, if you are in the habit of shaking a stick at peers."

"I'm not, laughed Ernest. "I'll stay out of sight in my tower."

"You'd do nothing of the sort," returned the earl. "I want to exhibit you. You're way of being a celebrity, you know."

"Talk of the town, and I don't mean perhaps," said the earl. "Look at this."

He handed Ernest a London newspaper.

Ernest gave a gasp of dismay. His own features stared out at him from the page. He saw a highly informal and none too flattering photograph of himself standing by the castle moat, and from the shape of his mouth it appeared that Ernest had her tail for twelve minutes if you wind her up."

"She's wonderful, sir, simply wonderful," said Crump. His face was wreathed in beams now. "I'm most grateful to you, sir."

"And I," said the earl, "am hungry. Shall we finish our dinner before somebody else begins to wag and bark?"

They returned to the dining room.

In the kitchen Crump was pouring the after-dinner coffee into Spode cups.

"As I remarked, my dear Sylvia, I am considered an excellent judge of men," he said. "A good butler must be. And I say this—'he' wagged a finger at her to drive home his point—'Mr. Bingley may be a millionaire or he may be a tramp; but millionaire or tramp, American or Eskimo, in the best sense of the word he's a gentleman. And now will you excuse me whilst I go to my room and wind up Elaime?'"

CHAPTER VII

After dinner they had a musical evening. Lady Rosa, at Ernest's request, sang "Come to the Fair," "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," and "Love's Old Sweet Song." The earl, at nobody's request, attacked, with a ready voice, "Fie! Tom, Cobley and All," though handicapped by the fact that he was sure of neither the words nor the tune. Ernest, by popular demand, rendered "Listen to the Mocking Bird" (with variations) on his harmonica.

"What a talented chap you are, Ernest," remarked the earl. "You're not only musical but you stuff a superb pug."

"Thank you, sir."

"I was an extremely thoughtful thing to do," said Lady Rosa.

"Neither Father nor I thought of doing it, and we knew, far better than you could have, how much Elaime meant to Crump."

"It was nothing," murmured Ernest, "nothing at all."

"And now, Ernest," said the earl, "I'm going to ask you to do something for me."

"I'll be glad to, sir. What do you wish stuffed?"

"My sister Julia," replied the earl.

"Oh, horridly sorry. That slipped out. Shouldn't want her stuffed, really. Shouldn't know where to put her if she were. And she's not a bad old winkle if you don't have to see much of her."

"Ernest is still wondering what you want of him," his daughter reminded the earl.

"He must be," said the earl. "Well, Ernest, the fact is I should like to borrow the use of the castle for two days and nights."

"Of course you may," said Ernest.

"When do you want to be kept?"

"But I don't want to leave," said the earl. "I want you to stay and help me fling the knaveest. Will you?"

"Glad to," said Ernest, anxious to obey, but wholly in the dark as to the nature of the benifait.

"Ta," said the earl. "You can always count on a Bingley to do the right thing, as King George the Third remarked when Lucius Hingley married the baroness."

"The idea Father is trying to convey in his obscure way is that we'd like to hold the annual Hunt Ball of the Penington Hounds here a fortnight from tonight," Lady Rosa said.

"You see," enlarged the earl, "it's the county's biggest binge, and it's always been held here since men began to chase foxes in these parts. We sleep some of the hunting party the night before the hunt, and the next night all the lords and ladies gather in their pink coats and best pianofortes for a bit of innocent merriment. We contribute the castle and the hunt members supply the eatables, drinkables and music, and a good time is had by all, except the fox."

"I'll be very pleased to donate the use of the castle," said Ernest.

Motors in Britain

Total of Three Million Cars Is Being Approached

Every day during the past year an average of 500 additional motor vehicles have been put into service on the roads of Great Britain. The latest figures of the Ministry of Transport show that a total of three million is being approached, which prompts the question: What is saturation point? When will it be reached?

Lord Nuffield recently put the figure at 10 millions; and insofar as this roughly represents a car for every family, the Ministry accepts it as a definite, though improbable, maximum. Mr. Burgin, the Minister of Transport, has stated that if the present rate of increase is maintained—last year it was 169,000, or 6½ per cent—the present total will be doubled in 15 years. Beyond that no one is prepared to go, since so many unknown factors are involved.

When it comes to the problems attendant upon such an enormous increase, there are, of course, divergences of expert opinion. The Ministry maintain that traffic congestion is severe only in big towns, and point to the country's total road mileage of 178,500, which per square mile (2.03) is already the highest in the world—London Observer.

Cannot Always Choose

Modern War Bombs Often Fly Wide Of Objective

It is certain that neither side in a modern war can choose its objectives so exactly as to ensure a reasonable safety to civilian life. A bomber may set out to destroy a factory or the docks above a town, but in the tumult of the attack, with shells bursting round him and defending planes rising in the air, it is more than likely that the pilot will either miss his aim or cast his bombs at the wrong place. How lives of harmless civilians. But though it is hard to hit military objectives, everything goes to show that when the rebels began the present wave of bombing they had no intention of causing a great summer and autumn raids on Barcelona and Valencia were frequent, but unjudicious correspondents pointed out that docks and warehouses were the main ends of attack. The numbers killed in a recent week show that the rebel aim has changed, and that they have hope of destroying the morale of a loyal people by a new and fearful means—Manchester Guardian.

Marine Guard Disbanded

U.S. "Horse Marines" Have Last Review At Peiping

The world's only "Horse Marines" passed out of existence at Peiping recently.

This mounted detachment of the United States Embassy marine guard passed in a last review at Breckenridge field before disbanding forever.

The "Horse Marines" consisted of 30 expert sabremen, all crack plato and rifle athletes, commanded by one officer. The detachment was first organized here in 1912 to protect Americans living outside the Embassy quarter in Peiping's narrow lanes.

The Government's decision to split the Peiping Embassy Guard, transferring half its personnel to Tientsin, caused the mounted marines to be disbanded.

"I cannot understand," said the minister, "why so many of our congregation go straight from church to the cafe."

"I am a commercial traveller," writes a correspondent, "and you to endless travelling by train and automobile. I find that it becomes constipated if I do not keep myself internally clean. Kruschen Salts is the only thing that will do this effectively and not interfere with my work. I take a large dose of Kruschen every Saturday night and on Sunday, when I have no work to do, the salts act on me. On week-days I take a small dose on rising. It is necessary that I be on my toes all through the day, and this is the only way that it possibly can be done."

Kruschen Salts is an excellent recipe for maintaining a condition of internal cleanliness. The numerous salts in Kruschen stimulate the internal organs to smooth, regular action. Your inside is thus kept clear of those impurities which, when allowed to accumulate, lower the whole tone of the system.

Standing For Democracy

Britain Cannot Be Expected Alone To Keep Peace Of The World

It is irritating to read in newspapers from the United States, to hear from radio "commentators" in that country, the suggestion that Britain is letting freedom down because she is not ready to fight at the drop of the hat for Manchukuo or China or Ethiopia or Austria or Czechoslovakia.

Britain, say critics of this sort, should take a firm stand for democracy. And the extraordinary thing is that it never seems to occur to them that the United States, as we are told so often the wealthiest and potentially most powerful nation in the world, has at least an equal responsibility for the preservation of democracy. Its traditions, inherited and acquired, are traditions of liberty; its hatred of injustice and oppression is deep-seated and very real.

The argument advanced is the familiar one that Britain, a world empire with its heart close to the European turmoil, in its own defence must resist aggression wherever its head is reared. But if Britain went to war against the dictators—to keep the Japanese out of China or the Germans out of Austria or the Italians out of Spain—and were beaten, what then would be the position of the United States? It would be almost literally a case of the United States against the world.

Does anyone imagine the weak and helpless republics of Central and South America would be saved by the Monroe Doctrine?—Ottawa Journal.

Of course, they could do it and save money, if they wished. There are saws, hammers, files, chisels, vices and even bits to be had at mighty low prices. Considering their costs, they are mighty good values.

But real workmen and good mechanics, know that cheap tools lack sturdy quality—the cutting edge—because they lack the temper.

and a grunt or groan. He immediately went to the spot where the coal had fallen, calling to his partner, Mike Kubica, to come. He found Ford's body partly buried under, he estimated, about 300 lbs. of coal, with his legs protruding. He immediately extricated him, felt his pulse and his heart, but believed him dead when extricated.

W. G. Hopkins, fire boss, considered the spot safe. He had inspected it at 12:45 p.m., about 2½ hours prior to the fall and it was alright. Answering a question, he stated that shots had been fired between 9 and 9:30 that morning.

Harry Gardner, mine surveyor, submitted a plan of the spot where the fatality happened, and J. O. C. McDonald gave evidence on the location, stating that Ford had worked about four months at this place. Every precaution had been taken to ensure safety as far as possible. Deceased must have been proceeding up the slope on his hands and knees when the coal fell, as the distance it fell would only be about four feet from the high side. Catching him across the base of the skull and back, it forced him down, causing gashes to his face and body injuries. Had he been a second either side of the fall, he would have escaped injury.

Other witnesses were Mike Kubica, corroborating Henri's evidence; M. Stigler, secretary of the miners' association, on identification of the body and James Anderson, who was working at pillar 23. Mines Inspector Evan Morgan was present.

The verdict was to the effect that death was entirely accidental, at crosscut 7, between pillars 24 and 25, with no blame attached to anyone. The jury were J. M. Allan, Earl Bowen, James Kerr, T. Mitchell, W. Jackson, A. Ambrose.
